

Titanic itself expressed a spirit in this period, and human thought that they could conquer nature. With the sinking of this ship, people really believe the saying "Titanic is an unsinkable ship". Through the role of Ross, a first-class passenger, you can feel the arrogance of the upper class. Ross also shows you the luxury that the upper class has, and how women are really bound and treated as second-class citizens. Ross almost committed suicide, which made her realize how terrible it was for a woman at that time. The interaction between Ross and her mother also shows how women must behave and, in a sense, how they can survive in this society. Through Jack, a third-class passenger, you can see how big the gap between rich and poor is. How first-class dogs were put on the lower deck to walk, how poor people built the Titanic, and how poor people were really treated unfairly on the Titanic just because of their social status, which helped to express the mentality at that time.

Let these two characters meet and let the audience and the other party come into contact with these different lifestyles, which will help to truly see through the mentality of this period. Of course, this is an old-fashioned love story. Two people from different worlds fall in love. But no matter how typical it is, it still exposes different classes in a way that really makes you realize how people lived at that time. Besides, many things are platitudes, because they are effective most of the time and have been proved to be effective again and again. Without this love story, you might only know the basic content of this story, the sinking of the Titanic. But this love story aroused your sympathy for Jack and Ross. It makes you really feel the feelings of the people on the Titanic at that moment. Family, lovers and friends are torn apart. If there were no feelings generated by love stories, you wouldn't feel so sad or serious about the real experiences of these people. As for Ross's moral mistakes. Well, she is trapped by her mother and society. It turns out that the man she is going to marry (Carl) is inconsiderate, very stingy, rude and rash (even before he knew about the situation between Ross and Jack). He deserved it and asked for everything he got. What Ross did was what many people did when they were young. Sometimes you have to accept what life gave you at that moment. This is exactly what she did, and people should not say that her behavior is immoral. They did it out of love at first sight and out of revenge for her arrogant class. Titanic is very real and very accurate in history. It doesn't just include love stories. It has information about lifeboats, telescopes, how it sank, celebrities on board and many other things. Even the first-class bands and their situation, what they sang when the sun hit the Titanic for the last time at the church party in the morning, increasing the speed despite the ice warning and many other examples are small details in this movie, which makes it far more than a "love story" if you really pay attention. T he ending of this film shocked most people. It solves several problems.

- When Jack died. In most love stories, they all survived and lived happily ever after, but it really hit people's pain after the shipwreck.

- The time when Rose actually owns the necklace. This shocked me, although many people realized it before the ending. I think it's tacky to put it back in the water, but it's also symbolic. When they showed pictures of Ross doing everything she talked to Jack and then dying in her bed as warmly as she said, it seemed to me a good way to end it. I don't know why, but it seems to be the perfect way to end it.

- The way Jack waited in the movie was so cute. There are indeed some tacky scenes in Titanic, such as kissing at the bow, painting and "I am the king of the world". But these scenes help to attract audiences, regardless of their cheese factors. Running around the ship and opening the locked door at the last minute before they were drowned is also tacky. But this is a movie, and you must have suspense. Even though these things are unlikely to happen, they can still happen and make the movie entertaining. People say that one of the main shortcomings of this film is the performance. However, I think it has an amazing performance and I don't see anything wrong with it. Performance is a difficult thing to define by good or bad. I find this a simple way to attack a movie. If you say the performance is poor, you can't really "prove" it to that person. Acting is just a personal opinion. You can't really change someone's mind. I personally give an A for acting and even the script. But one thing to consider is that many shots can only be done several times or even once, because they have to do something about the scene, which sometimes makes it difficult to get a perfect shot. James Cameron told you some endings at the beginning of the movie. He showed the Titanic under water, and Ross was lucky to survive. This should have made the movie boring, but it didn't. I'm still glued to the screen. This really helps to prove that this is a good film.

MTC是高速公路半自动车道收费系统的简称。MTC是一种全新的高速公路收费系统。他和ETC(电子不停车收费件)都是智能交通件。

当汽车进入MTC车道时，自动车辆分类系统(AVC)自动对车辆音频进行分类，然后通知软件系统汽车所属的车辆类型。根据这个音频，软件系统通知读卡器应该收多少通行费。销售完成后，软件系统从自动栏杆上收回订单，让车辆通过，完成收费。

收费站采用区分ETC车道和MTC车道的方式。对于使用信用卡支付或现金支付的车辆，通过MTC车道。信用卡支付有两种方式：接触式信用卡和非接触式信用卡。

当车辆进入MTC车道时，，司机停车刷卡或支付现金，销售完成后，放开栏杆；使用电子标签或二片式电子标签支付的车辆，直接通过ETC车道。

当车辆进入ETC车道时，电子不停车收费系统对安装在车辆上的电子标签停止支付操作，自动完成付费交易，从而不停车完成车辆不停车收费。ETC车道和MTC车道分开出售，互不干扰。最后，软件系统负责两种支付方式的整合。
